

Jackson stepping down

MAD RIVER UNION
CAL POLY HUMBOLDT – In a surprise announcement last week, Cal Poly Humboldt President Tom Jackson will “step away” from his position next month. He’ll remain at CPH as a professor, working with the College of Professional Studies and the College of Extended Education & Global Engagement. Jackson’s departure marks five years of change at the university, including its transformation into a polytechnic, a massive physical expansion and most recently, the temporary closure of the campus following Gaza protesters’ occupation of Siemens Hall. The announcement:

CAL POLY HUMBOLDT
Cal Poly Humboldt President Tom Jackson, Jr. will be stepping away from his current position next month. His departure caps a five-year tenure that saw a dramatic re-shaping of the University, including new academic programs and a historic state investment of new funding as part of the change to a polytechnic. President Jackson informed CSU Chancellor Mildred Garcia and colleagues of his decision earlier today. He has been consulting with the CSU Chancellor’s Office to ensure an orderly transition since early spring semester. An interim president will be appointed shortly, JACKSON ◆ PAGE 3

GAP, GP2045, harvest, tax, new city manager at council

MAD RIVER UNION
ARCATA – Tonight’s the night – Arcata’s new General Plan 2045 and its much-discussed Gateway Area Plan (GAP) are up for approval before the City Council. Tonight’s meeting will be historic for another reason – the hiring of new City Manager Merritt Perry. On top of that, the council is also set to approve final wording for its new sales tax ballot measure, and to authorize a timber harvest and sale. The landmark planning documents will be considered separately due to conflicts of interest. Vice Mayor Alex Stillman and Councilmember Stacy Atkins-Salazar can’t vote on the GAP due to conflicts of interest (owning property close to the Gateway Area). So, approval of the Gateway Area Plan, Gateway Code and the Program Environmental Impact Report will be decided first and separately by Mayor Meredith Matthews, Councilmembers Sarah Schaefer and Kimberley White. Next, the full council will vote on adoption of the General Plan 2045 with the exception of the Gateway Area Plan. The council meeting begins at 6 p.m. at Arcata City Hall, 736 F St. It also streams via the City of Arcata website and on YouTube.

Roundabout arrival has some Baysiders on edge

BAYSIDE – The mile-long Old Arcata Road Rehabilitation and Pedestrian/Bikeway Improvements project has been under construction for weeks, and the heavy equipment is at last touching its southernmost point – the intersection of Old Arcata and Jacoby Creek roads. There, a roundabout will channel traffic flows through the heavily used, three-way intersection. The location hosts the Bayside Post Office, Bayside Grange and Temperance Hall, and is also an interface between longstanding traffic safety issues. Project advocates support the improvements in safety, aesthetics and non-motorized access. Opponents have focused on impacts to the rural setting and historic resources – particularly in the roundabout area. Bayside Corners Board of Directors President Maggie Gainer said area residents and organizations that own historic buildings on the county part of Bayside are observing big changes underway in close proximity to their buildings, including the ROUNDBOUT ◆ PAGE 3

Stephenson leads Eureka Symphony

EUREKA SYMPHONY
EUREKA – The Eureka Symphony’s new 2024-2025 season will present not just an exciting new lineup of musical performances and special guests, but also a new general manager.

Nancy Stephenson, a long-time local community organizer, brings 45 years of experience collaborating with Humboldt County artists, musicians, businesses, nonprofits and local government agencies.

Most recently with the Redwood Coast Energy Authority for six years as their community strategies manager, Stephenson also coordinated the Arcata Bay Oyster Festival and all of Arcata Main Street’s programs.

Her passion for event planning, fundraising, marketing and outreach earned her a Humboldt Heroes Award in 2006. Others know her as a goldsmith, jewelry designer, graphic artist and photographer. Her enthusiasm, diverse skills, community relationships, and willingness to accept new challenges make her a good match for the Eureka Symphony and its future.

“The Board of Directors conducted an extensive search and was impressed by Nancy’s diverse skillset, history of community engagement and passion for promoting the arts,” said Board President Keenan Pool. “With Nancy’s capacity for leading an organization and Carol’s artistic vision, we could not be more excited for the future of the Eureka Symphony.”

Please reach out to Nancy if you would like to chat, have a question or perhaps volunteer or donate.

“Listening to live symphonic music immerses us in a personal journey that’s shaped by our individual perspectives and frame of mind, but we experience it alongside hundreds of others in the audience that we don’t even know. These experiences can have a bonding effect and may bring us closer as a community – enriched, inspired, and full of hope,” said Stephenson. “I want to nourish that potential. I’m honored to be able to work with Carol

Nancy Stephenson

Jacobson, Eureka Symphony’s artistic director and conductor, the distinguished Board of Directors, the experienced and devoted staff, volunteers, donors and sponsors and of course the musicians who make this all possible. We’ll be exploring new ways to bring this local treasure to a broader audience and be a catalyst for future generations.”

Both Stephenson and Jacobson feel they have struck a chord together.

The Eureka Symphony holds two major fundraising events each year. The next one, “Prelude to the Season Gala,” will take place on Sept. 29 to kick off the 2024-2025 season. Ticket holders will enjoy the Temporary Resonance Trio (Terrie Baune, violin; John Chernoff, piano; and Carol Jacobson, cello), hors d’oeuvres by Brett Shuler Fine Catering, wine, and Claire Bent with her ukulele. Mike McGuire will host a live auction. eurekasymphony.org

Dock-diving dogs, reduced adoption fees, Sammy so sweet & smart

July has been a busy month for the dogs of Humboldt! So many fun activities going on. If you haven't yet checked out Dash and Splash, the dock-diving (or just swimming) event currently at the shelter, there is still time!

Dash and Splash is set up in the field in front of the shelter and is open every day up until 8 p.m.

My dog Baylee, now 10, had many years happily leaping off the dock and swimming after a ball. Last year she decided that she was done with the dock-diving part but certainly enjoys her twenty-minute sessions of swimming in the pool. I enjoy seeing her swim without having to worry about her dying from blue-green algae. I highly recommend it.

Dash and Splash will be at the shelter through Saturday evening. A portion of the proceeds go to the Shelter's Emergency Medical Fund.

Reservation info can be found on the Facebook page for Dash and Splash, calling (707) 498-2030, or by just stopping by their booth outside the shelter.

It's fun just to watch some of the real dock-diving dogs fly off the platform. Come by for a look!

While you're at the shelter, stop in and look at the wall of photos and descriptions of our adoptable dogs and cats. There are currently over 50 cats ad 30 dogs up for adoption.

The shelter will have reduced adoption fees for both cats and dogs through the end of this week. You can't get a better deal for a pet that is spayed or neutered, microchipped and current on vaccinations!

We have so many great dogs waiting to move on to their next adventure; could it be with you?

One of our dogs up for adoption is the adorable puppy Sammy. Sammy is about four months old and has been showing us just how smart and eager to learn he is!

Sammy is doing great walking on the leash and has lots of friends to walk with among the other shelter dogs. He loves to play with toys but has really impressed us with his skill at mastering the many puzzle games we have for the dogs.

He is so quick to figure out which doors to open or which pieces to spin to find the hidden treats. You can almost see the gears turning in his brain!

Where some dogs would get impatient and just try shaking the whole puzzle to get the treats out, Sammy carefully figures out each level that needs to be mastered. It really is quite something to see a dog so young figure out these advanced games.

When Sammy isn't demonstrating his smarts, he is your basic happy, cuddly pup. He has such a pretty light brindle coat and extremely soulful eyes. His ears are currently halfway up; no telling which way they'll go when he's bigger.

Sammy is ready to move in with you now – he has been neutered and microchipped and is up to date on his vaccinations. He is currently about 25 pounds and has some growing yet to do.

Sammy got to go to Annie and Mary Day last weekend and he had a great time!

Sammy and his cat and dog friends are available through the Humboldt County Animal Shelter. (707) 840-9132 is the number to call for appointments or information. Come meet this little charmer today!

Sammy.

Bayside | Last-ditch opposition

Temperance Hall. “The City’s plans for this roundabout component of the road improvement project were difficult to understand on paper and changed over time,” Gainer said. “I’m hoping that the city’s project contributes to and does not detract from Bayside Corners’ site beautification and placemaking project in Bayside.”

Participants in a group called Bayside Cares have fought the project, filing appeals to the California Coastal Commission (CCC). They argued that the project isn’t consistent with the Local Coastal Program and could impact wetlands; that the city hadn’t consulted with the California Department of Fish and Wildlife (CDFW) in planning the project; that the public hadn’t been properly consulted and that the project used bad information. The appeals were all rejected by the CCC in 2022.

But that hasn’t halted objections to the project. Nearby property owner Susan Lefever said that while she supports repaving Old Arcata Road, the roundabout has been “ill advised and ill done.” She said no traffic study was conducted to justify creation of the roundabout, and that a consultant hired by citizens to look at the intersection had recommended against one.

“I would like to block the roundabout,” she said. “All that money could be spent elsewhere where far greater need exists than a roundabout that is proven not to be necessary anyway.”

Sunday night, Lefever said she was going to greet arriving cement trucks Monday morning in a last-ditch effort to thwart completion of a storm drain, which she called “a ditch too far.”

“I plan on sitting there or standing there or something so they cannot continue with this boondoggle,” she said. “That’s my plan.”

Monday morning, Lefever, neighbor and roundabout opponent Marc Delaney and others gathered in front of her house, giving notice to a GR Sundberg project foreman that she planned to block equipment from completing the roadside storm drain.

“Prevent the roundabout,” Lefever said in a prepared statement. “Stick with repaving Old Arcata Road.” She advocated for another project alternative based on improvements to the intersection, but without a roundabout.

The roundabout elicited both adamant opposition and broad support at design charettes during the project’s scoping phase.

Delaney claimed the public process was unknown to Jacoby Creek residents, who, had they been told about it, would have turned out in force to oppose it.

Housing | County Planco hears housing needs, issues

“both really good things.” The low income category is one that isn’t served by the for-profit private sector.

“It’s gonna take a public subsidy to develop a $20 million project that will provide rents that are affordable to folks who are earning less than 60 percent of area median income,” said Beth Matsumoto of the Rural Communities Housing Development Corporation, which is developing the low cost senior housing. “So we need that public subsidy to be able to being that cost down.”

The “local leverage” funding, together with state funding, is essential to get federal tax credits, she continued.

Matsumoto described the affordable housing project as “a separate but integrated project” related to Life Plan Humboldt.

The plan is to start construction within three years, which Matsumoto said is “a really aggressive timeline” that coincides with Life Plan Humboldt’s timeline for its senior assisted living complex.

Also during public comment, McKinleyville resident Mary Burke said friends have told her that availability of affordable housing will “get them out of their multifamily homes into a place that fits their lifestyle, right in downtown McKinleyville.”

Requests for proposals from developers for the $2.7 million available for additional multifamily housing in the county will be released soon.

According to a written staff report, 100 percent of the funding is “from non-county sources.”

Also at the meeting, supervisors authorized submission of a grant application for up to $5 million in funding for supporting new and existing manufactured homes.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is providing grants for “revitalizing” existing manufactured homes and expanding overall supply.

According to a written county staff report, “Manufactured housing is a critical piece of Humboldt County’s affordable housing stock that provides a home to over 2,800 Humboldt residents.”

The county’s application will propose using funds for “repair, rehabilitation or replacement of existing manufactured housing units” and “development or improvement of infrastructure that supports new or existing (manufactured housing units).”

The staff report names a variety of challenges faced by manufactured home owners.

“Nearly a third of households living in manufactured housing are headed by an elderly individual and manufactured housing households have a higher prevalence of a significant disability,” it says. “These vulnerable populations need access to infrastructure and amenities that are often unavailable for residents of manufactured housing.”

If awarded, the grant will also include funding for county staff administration work.

Jackson | Will remain at Cal Poly as tenured professor and the CSU will carry out a national search for President Jackson’s replacement within the next year.

“Cal Poly Humboldt is an amazing place with special people. I have had the privilege to work alongside scientists and future scientists, teachers and future teachers, artists and future artists, engineers and future engineers, and leaders and future leaders. Like many of you, I wake up every day and remember what a gift I have been given: to have the opportunity to inspire and lead others. Your work makes a positive difference for our students. Please never forget that,” says Jackson.

In a letter to CSU Chancellor Mildred García outlining his plans, President Jackson highlighted the transformation underway on campus as well as some of the personal reasons guiding his decision. “As a President within the CSU, I have had 22 other close colleagues that matter greatly. Working beside them has helped this campus immensely when needed most.”

“I am a dad at heart,” he wrote. “I come to work every day to provide for my family while trying to make a difference in the lives of others. It was the desire to serve and help others that led me to this profession. Today, I find great joy in being the passenger in a small plane that my daughter is piloting. It was almost 22 years ago that I was the one flying and she was the nine-month-old sleeping beside me in the plane’s cabin.”

“We do the very best we can every day, trusting the faculty, staff, and students to do the same,” Jackson says. “In the end, it remains about the students. And what has been most rewarding are the many students who have graduated over the last five years. Nothing replaces the smiles of a student and the applause and excitement from their family as their student crosses the stage to receive their diploma. That is what it is all about.”

Fire District | Directors discuss options for future financing

In a draft of its response to the Grand Jury report, the board agreed with most of its findings. The board also stressed that it is actively working on solutions to its financial challenges.

“I think it’s important that the public know that this board has been working on making sure the finances have been in order and are going to stay stable into the future and that we are already working on a replacement for Measure F,” Director Blaine Maynor said at the meeting. ““We’re trying to get ahead of this as much as we can.”

The district has an annual budget of about $6.5 million. About 40 percent of its revenue comes from its share of property tax. About 57 percent of revenues come from a benefit assessment, passed in 2006, and Measure F, a special tax passed by voters in 2020.

One of the problems with both the benefit assessment and Measure F is that they don’t increase with inflation. As the Grand Jury report states, costs have increased by 57 percent since the benefit assessment was created in 2006, but the tax rate has not increased.

Also, Measure F, which allows the district keep all three of its stations open, expires in 2030.

The reason the district put an expiration date on Measure F was to get it passed by the voters, who narrowly rejected Measure R earlier that year. District leaders have said that a lack of an expiration date on Measure R was one of the reasons it was shot down.

Before Measure F was passed, the district closed one of its three stations on a rotating basis. The district has stations in Downtown Arcata, on Janes Road near Mad River Community Hospital and in McKinleyville.

With the Measure F revenues, the district is keeping all three stations open, each with two firefighters.

However, as the Grand Jury points out, the district has no money to fund fire engine replacements. “This results in high maintenance costs for old equipment and periods of time when engines are out of service,” states the report.

The report also points out that the district’s fire engines are understaffed. The National Fire Protection Association recommends four firefighters per engine. Arcata Fire generally operates with two firefighters per engine.

The district plans to come back to voters with new taxes and/or assessments in the future, but first its waiting for a “standards of coverage” report to be completed by a consultant jointly hired by the district, the City of Arcata and Cal Poly Humboldt.

The three entities agreed to have the report prepared after Cal Poly Humboldt received approval to construct the Craftsman Mall, located off St. Louis Road near U.S. Highway 101. The $200 million project will include 940 beds in a six-story and seven-story building.

The Cal Poly high rises, as well as land use regulations that may allow high rises in the Arcata Gateway area, has fire district officials concerned because they have neither the staffing or equipment to safely respond to fires in such structures. The district doesn’t have a ladder truck.

How the fire district tackles all these issues will be influenced by the results of the standards of coverage report.

“The SOC [standards of coverage] findings will provide a basis for the AFD Board to recommend station, staffing and equipment guidelines for the District,” states a draft response to the Grand Jury’s report from the district.

While the district can propose a new tax structure, it’s ultimately up to the voters to decide the issue. The district is also powerless to prevent high rises from being built.

“City of Arcata, Cal Poly Humboldt, and Humboldt County zoning/land use authorities will decide whether their policies and plans are within the District service capacity. If Cal Poly Humboldt, the City of Arcata and Humboldt County approve construction and occupancy of buildings whose height and mass exceed District response capacity the District lacks authority to stop them,” states the district’s draft response to the Grand Jury.

AFD Director Nicole Johnson noted at the July 9 meeting that when Measure F was passed in 2020, the district did not know that Humboldt State would be transformed into Cal Poly Humboldt.

AFD Director Eric Loudenslager said the district will need to return to voters and convince them to update the assessment and the tax.

“I do believe the board has an obligation to try to make an argument to the community that we need to have an inflation adjustment in the measure and an inflation clause in the benefit assessment,” Loudenslager said.

Loudenslager said that a “back of the envelope” calculation indicates that if you take the $1.4 million the district collects through the benefit assessment, and you put it in a government inflation Consumer Price Index calculator from 2006 to 2023, it shows that the district would be receiving an additional $725,000 each year.

“Which would be enough to put three people on at least one of our stations, maybe a little bit more than that,” Loudenslager said.

Loudenslager said that future efforts to increase both the benefit assessment and Measure F should focus on having three firefighters on an engine and not address the high rise buildings.

The concern is that people won’t want to pay higher taxes that are perceived as subsidizing Cal Poly and Arcata Gateway high rise projects.

“What I worry about is that it would fail,” Loudenslager said.

Loudenslager suggested that the district look at development fees that would require new construction to pay toward fire district infrastructure improvements.

Another idea is the have the City of Arcata create “enhanced infrastructure finance districts” which would tax new developments.

Loudenslager said the district could then borrow money to pay for improvements, with the debt paid for with the new taxes.

“In my view, that’s the city cooperating with us,” Loudenslager said. “The city is the one that is doing the zoning change, and for us to assume the risk of trying to borrow the millions of dollars that would be required is, I think, untenable.”

Director Randy Mendosa said that his district has three large mobile home parks and that convincing the residents to pass Measure F was a tough sell.

“That was a tough one because a lot of those people are very low income,” Mendosa said.

Some of the money for fire district improvements should come from the state, Mendosa said.

“The State of California put close to a half billion dollars into this community... to convert Humboldt State to Cal Poly Humboldt,” Mendosa said. “Why could not the State of California look at the unusual circumstances of putting nearly a half billion dollars into a small community of 18,000 people and pay towards the infrastructure because my constituents can’t afford it?”

Mendosa said so far, he hasn’t received an answer.

“When I was given an audience with Cal Poly Humboldt, I didn’t get an answer. When I asked our state elected representatives, I didn’t get an answer,” Mendosa said. “Why can’t the state include in those plans to cover at least some of their infrastructure costs, because our little community can’t afford it?”

The AFD board will further review its responses to the Grand Jury at its meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 13 at 5:30 p.m. at its Downtown Station, 631 Ninth St. in Arcata.

HUMBOLDT CRABS

TOASTY The World Famous Crab Grass Band recently took its first road trip since the pandemic began.

MATT FILAR | UNION

A sizzling hot road trip for the Crab Grass Band

The World Famous Crab Grass Band always rocks the Arcata Ball Park. But imagine holding a sizzling hot tuba or trumpet in the summer heat in Healdsburg, in late June. But band members persevered.

“It was basically borderline heat exhaustion,” one band member said.

Healdsburg fans were at first quizical about the band but ended up being really enthusiastic.

Thirty or so of the Crab Grass players made the trip, the first band trip since COVID.

“One of our band members is a Gillig bus aficionado and he drove us down in his bus,” Gordon Johnson said. “He plays bari sax and that’s his hobby besides music. His grandfather worked for Gillig.”

The band had plans to go on another road trip to Medford when the Crabbies played the Medford Rogues the first weekend in July but the weather interfered. The forecast was just too hot.

Crabs & fans stay classy against Kings

Richard LaPreziosa
MAD RIVER UNION

ARCATA —As much as Crabs fans famously take heckling to innovative, creative heights, it’s rare they will cross the line to a level as to be admonished publicly by the PA announcer during a game.

To be fair to the fans, they did applaud West Coast Kings center fielder Kirk Woolf when he made a spectacular diving catch in the outfield early in the game to end an inning and extinguish a Crabs scoring threat.

And to be further fair to the fans they were driven to employ foul language in an unmistakable tone of outrage in the fifth inning as two Crabs hitters were hit in the head on only two pitches!

That means, pitcher throws – bonk in the head, batter walks. And then, next batter, first throw, bonk in the head again!

It was part of a sloppy series by the Kings, with errors, wild pitches and unearned runs galore. The Crabs won Sunday by a score of 7-1 behind yet another stellar effort from starting pitcher Nolan Long, who seemed to be having the appropriate level of fun Sunday, enjoying his work and only allowing the Kings 2 hits and one run.

The Crabs are in full summer stride right now winning seven games in a row.

They won all the games against the Kings this weekend, 4-2 on Friday night, and 4-1 Saturday, as well as two mid-week games against the Alameda Anchors.

They’re also separating themselves from the lower teams in the Pacific Empire League where they currently sit in third place. It’s too bad they have no scheduled games left against the second place Lincoln Potters because they are in striking distance of the Potters second place spot, and would need to reach second place to vie for the league championship.

Instead the Crabs will be tested this week against the first place Healdsburg Prune-Packers who swept the Crabs on their ill-fated road trip earlier in the season. Healdsburg comes in for three huge games this week starting Tuesday.

From there it’s all home games folks. More league games against Medford. More big games for both teams as Medford is trying to get where the Crabs are in third place, and if they could win those three games, starting Friday, July 19 it would take them a long way toward getting there.

And though league play ends after the West Coast Kings next visit on July 23 and July 24, the Crabs will still play six more games after that as the 2024 season comes to a close on Aug. 4.

Skol! Danes, Dell’Arte honor Asian American artists with Prize of Hope

Janine Volkmar
MAD RIVER UNION

“The true listening voice is a first voice and a path to hope,” Birthe Rosenfeldt told the audience in Blue Lake. Rosenfeldt was one of the delegation of Danish theater folks who bring the Prize of Hope to Dell’Arte every other year.

The prize has been given by the Danish Institute of Popular Theater and Dell’Arte since 2006. Prize recipients are honored in Denmark one year and in Blue Lake in alternating years.

This year’s Prize of Hope recipients are Asian American storyteller Brenda Wong Aoki and Asian American jazz composer Mark Izu. First Voice, their organization based in San Francisco, weaves non-Western theatrical, musical and spoken word traditions into dynamic and meaningful productions that touch the heart.

Aoki and Izu performed a piece that incorporated history, family legends, music on modern and ancient Asian instruments, slides and Aoki’s captivating storytelling. It was at times hilarious and at other times stunning in its vulnerability. Many in the audience were holding their breath as to what would come next in Aoki’s narrative of her family’s arrival in California’s early days, their incarceration in the internment camps for American citizens of Japanese descent during World War II, what happened after the war was over, and examples of hate crimes against Asians today.

It’s a story not everyone knows and, as more books and theater pieces such as unite the audience members by introducing each person waiting for the play to start. You think you will be sitting peacefully in the darkened auditorium, rustling your program and finding a cough drop in the depths of your purse. No. The house lights go up and the producer holds a whispered interview with every single per-this one emerge, the shameful treatment of these citizens comes to light.

HOPEFUL Brenda Wong Aoki, Birthe Rosenfeldt and Mark Izu with a signed puzzle piece that will be carried back to Denmark and placed in a board inscribed by all the past winners of the Prize of Hope. JANINE VOLKMAR | UNION

Before Aoki and Izu performed, the visiting Danes performed their own type of theater piece.

Imagine that when you attend a live theater event, the producers decide to son in the audience, make each person stand up and introduce that person to the rest of the audience.

That’s what the Danes did in Blue Lake. They introduced the person, handed the by-now-embarrassed person a glass of wine or water, and called out “Skol!”

STAGE PRESENCE Dell’Artians and members of the Danish Institute of Popular Theater with Prize of Hope honorees (center) Brenda Wong Aoki and Mark Izu of First Voice. JANINE VOLKMAR | UNION

Everyone else in the audience did the same. And so it went.

At first it seemed unbelievable. My seatmate said, under her breath, “This is going to take hours.”

As theatergoers, we are used to sitting in the dark, not being in the spotlight. But after a few introductions, folks got into the swing of things. There was laughter and applause, there were enthusiastic “Skols!” and there was wine. I learned new things about people I have known for years. It, believe it or not, was a sweet experience.

After the First Voice performance, the ceremony began again but this time on the stage. Speeches were made, a letter from the Danish Minister of Culture was read, and then the amazingly crafted prizes were presented.

Tony Fuemmeler, a faculty member at Dell’Arte in mask making and head of training programs there, presented three modern Noh masks to Aoki and Izu. His aim, he said, “was to find an expression of someone who is just about to speak.” He incorporated older techniques with new materials. For instance, the hair of the masks was made from old bicycle tires. Aoki commented that “Tony has started a new tradition in masks.”

As in past years, one prize goes to the honorees, one stays at Dell’Arte, and one travels to Denmark.

The entire group – Aoki and Izu, the Danish visitors and members of the Dell’Arte Board of Directors and staff gathered around a huge Redwood plant. Aoki and Izu were asked to sign their names on it, amidst the names of all the previous winners. That’s history.

Love of place inspires this year’s student pageant at the Arcata Playhouse

Pageant at the Playhouse is a long-standing tradition in the Creamery District. Children ages 9 to 15 spend two weeks learning, playing and creating, while attending classes in movement, stilt-walking, storytelling, mask making and puppet creations that aim to build physical theater skills and ensemble building foundations.

At the end of the two weeks, the children perform an outdoor pageant that they devise based on a prompt question.

This year’s question was “What do you love about the place you live?” and will be performed in the Creamery District starting in the front of the Arcata Playhouse on Friday, July 19 at 3 p.m.

According to 15-year-old Scout, who has participated in the pageant for at least five years, the answers to that question var-backward could be bad.”

Co-leaders Sharon Bayly and Jaese Lecuyer stressed the importance of creating a feeling of ensemble among the participants. Jaese said that the power of the ensemble never ceases to amaze him. The students quickly begin to share ideas and communicate them even non-verbally.

“Every single time, it moves me,” he said.

Sharon said that the ability to be silly and make mistakes is an important part of the learning process. “Learning through failure: that’s where the juicy ideas live.”

Both leaders felt that building a sense of trust was key to generating ideas as a collective. They stressed that all the material comes from the students’ ideas, not prescribed by them.

The procession will begin in front of the Arcata Playhouse and travel around the Creamery district with different scenes taking place in different places. The performance is free and open to the public. Come cheer on these talented kids!

If you would like to be spotlighted or have a suggestion for a different artist or event, you can reach out at allthingsart@playhousearts.org.

ied among what the students considered “place.” Their answers ranged from their bodies to their rooms to Humboldt County. She said that much of the theme of this year’s performance revolves around that difference.

Although, of course, there are references to trees, ocean and Bigfoot. She said that there was also an element of “crazy chaos and exaggerated costumes” and that the characters talk to the audience from the “super cool, giant creations that you make.”

The day that I visited the camp, the students were practicing walking on stilts. Some kids were walking with assistance or using a fence for support, but many of them were freely marching around and seemed very comfortable.

At one point, a student fell forward and landed on her padded knees. Jaimal, who is one of the teaching assistants, yelled, “Great fall!” When he saw my face, he explained, “She fell correctly! We teach them to fall forward onto their knees. Falling

CR President Keith Flamer reflects on CPH President Tom Jackson’s stepdown

COLLEGE OF THE REDWOODS

It is with a mix of profound appreciation, gratitude, and sadness that President Keith Flamer of College of the Redwoods received the news of his dear friend and colleague, Dr. Tom Jackson, stepping down from his role as President of Cal Poly Humboldt.

“Over the years, our partnership has flourished, transforming from professional collaboration to genuine friendship,” said President Flamer. “Dr. Jackson’s vision and dedication have been pivotal in creating a solid alliance between College of the Redwoods and Cal Poly Humboldt. We’ve achieved what the California public higher education system always strove for—a true partnership between a community college and a university.”

President Flamer fondly recalled their time traveling the county together for their “Talk Humboldt” radio show, saying, “These opportunities we had talking to people, learning about their businesses, their needs and goals, gave us valuable insights into our community and, I believe, made us both better leaders. Our partnership on the new, state-of-the-art Healthcare Hub in Arcata will transform healthcare in our area, becoming the epicenter of healthcare education on the North Coast and training thousands of professionals in the coming years.”

He also praised Dr. Jackson’s successful efforts in transitioning Humboldt State University into the third Cal Poly in the state, calling it “a significant achievement that has set the stage for even greater opportunities for our students and community.” Additionally, President Flamer says, “Tom and I also shared a passion for establishing a rodeo program, and it’s fitting that this was one of the last initiatives we will accomplish together. I look forward to continuing the partnership between CR and Cal Poly Humboldt.”

“Dr. Jackson’s legacy will continue to inspire CR as we carry forward the spirit of cooperation he championed. While we’ll miss his leadership and humor, we know his influence will be felt for years to come. Wishing you all the best, my friend!” President Flamer concluded.

Old Arcata Road is newly walkable

Thirty years ago, when Bayside residents first proposed upgrading crumbling Old Arcata Road, the opposition — often from people who don’t actually live on Old Arcata Road — was furious. You would have thought we had proposed building a nuclear power plant in Bayside. The project started and sputtered out for three decades while the potholes spread.

❖ LETTERS

Happily, the job has now begun and we now have a safe and generously wide sidewalk covering the half-mile stretch from Jacoby Creek School to Sunny Brae. Soon it will extend to a roundabout at Jacoby Creek Road. Connecting sidewalks through the Community Center area take you to the Plaza, just over four miles round trip.

Adjacent to the new sidewalk where Jacoby Creek School parents used to park in the mud we have a futuristic permeable parking strip. Trust me: you haven’t really parked until you’ve done it on a permeable strip. But don’t drive if you can help it — walk.

This summer would be the perfect time for a walk to Bayside on our new sidewalk. Leave the car at home and pretend you live in Europe where soaring gas costs make walking a no brainer. You’ll have an unobstructed and quite spectacular Bay View for the last half mile. By all means bring your significant other and/or dog.

Those starting at the Arcata end can enjoy lunch at the lovely Bayside Farmshares Café, conveniently located at the current south end of the sidewalk.

Sincerely,
Gordon Inkeles

The End is nigh

Since the fall of last year, I have been trying to decide what to do about the life I lead. I have toyed with the idea of liquidating all of my holdings and leaving the U.S. for good. My problem is that I can no longer live where it snows or where the heat turns humans into puddles. I like the weather on the coast. But I am tired of all the post-pandemic rhetoric.

I will be 75 years old this month and have voted in every election since I was 21. I am not patriotic but I believe in the ideals of this country. We do not live in a democracy, in the strictest sense of the word, but rather in a Republic that I have always believed is a government of the people and by the people. The problem seems to be that the government no longer belongs to the people.

Benjamin Franklin always warned of a “tyranny of the majority.” He did not have any warnings about the “tyranny of the minority.” Our society and our government have been taken over by a minority hell bent on taking us back to the 18th century. Good luck with that. I choose not to go back to a time when women were chattel and life was cheaper than it is now.

I have voted in many elections where I voted for the lesser of two evils. I am not saying Joe Biden is evil, but he might be getting a little long in the tooth for the rigors of the office of President of the United States. As for the orange-haired freak — I had hoped the Republicans would come to their senses, but alas that has not come to pass.

The debate was a farce; a meeting of the old fogies where No One Showed Up. All it really showed was that both parties, Democrats and Republicans, are terrified of the idea of President Kamala Harris. A pushy broad if there ever was one. An intelligent, articulate, no-nonsense leader. So of course we cannot have that.

For the past year nations across the globe have been preparing for the 2024 U.S. election and the fallout.

Lately I have come to the conclusion that this July 4th is the last one we will celebrate as a nation. No matter who wins the election, the country is in real trouble.

If Trump loses, he will never concede and his followers will take up arms against the government and any citizen who does not agree with them. If Trump wins the country will cease to exist.

One of the things the conservatives always fail to consider is the fallout from a disintegrating U.S. economy.

As our economy goes, so goes the economy of the rest of the developed nations. When the U.S. economy falters, and it will under a fascist dictatorship, the world will plunge into an economic depression from which it will surely never recover. It will be the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse. And so we will be gone.

Happy Trails,
Jan Phelps
Arcata

A ship going down

Until recently I backed President Biden as this year’s Democratic presidential candidate. Then “The Debate” happened. Biden’s responses were often erratic, incoherent, and barely audible.

I already had doubts about him. I’d previously seen a video of the White House Juneteenth celebration during which, while the crowd around him was grooving to the music, Biden just stood there frozen, staring into space, lost to the world.

Let’s put this in the context of a president who must be on-call 24/7/52.

The United States missile retaliation protocol is called Launch-On-Warning. Once incoming nuclear missiles are detected, there’s around 8 minutes during which the president is briefed, consults with advisors, and chooses an appropriate response. Can Biden, with his frequent cognitive breakdowns, really be the commander in chief we need?

Seeing Biden today, it’s not clear he could finish his current term, let alone serve another four years or be able to compete against and defeat Donald Trump. I hope the powers that be can convince Biden to step aside for a more capable candidate. If not, and Trump wins, America loses.

It would then be a case of the ship going down with its captain.

All Seasons Orchestra Presents

“Standards for The Summertime”

The All Seasons Orchestra directed by Garrick Woods will bring a free (donations gratefully accepted) concert to Trinidad Town Hall on Sunday, July 21 at 2 p.m. The dedicated group of talented musicians works all year to bring the gift of live music to the community.

Refreshments will be provided by Trinidad Civic Club with Dana Hope and Barbara Cline welcoming guests.

Open seating. Call (707) 599-4691.

Two City Council seats open

Residents of the City of Trinidad have a chance to file for a seat on the Trinidad City Council by mid-August. Incumbents Steve Ladwig and Jack West’s terms are up soon and both have indicated they may not run for re-election.

Ask for an election packet at the City Clerk’s Office in Town Hall. Candidates must be a resident of the city and a registered voter. The election takes place Nov. 5, 2024.

Last week’s City Council meeting had a packed agenda. The council voted on the “Option B” water rate increase to $66.20 per month, which will be the same for in-city and out-of-city residents. The decision follows a detailed Rural Community Assistance Corporation study performed since September 2023 with details about rate increases outlined during several recent City Council meetings. “Option A,” which would nearly double water rates and had the potential to eliminate the water fund deficit more quickly, was rejected by the council as too high (voting for Option B were Mayor Kelly and Councilmembers Ladwig, Breckenridge and Tuttle;

❖ TRINIDAD TIDINGS
Patti Fleschner

West was away).

The discussion of trying to place a T-3 level water master in charge of the water system, thus eliminating the need for Coleman Company of Sacramento’s expensive services, is ongoing.

The council and staff are taking very seriously both the need to build up the water reserve fund and at the same time not placing too great a burden on water rate payers. Not simple.

Josh Wolf of GHD presented a detailed traffic study report, the result of which will be the placement of some speed “humps,” signage to encourage slower vehicle speed, especially on View and Ocean streets, street striping and Edwards Street pedestrian improvements. The council voted unanimously to move forward with many of the GHD-recommended and grant-funded projects.

The Draft Trinidad Community Coastal Resilience Action Plan and Project Concept Designs were presented at length, with many charts and graphs related to short and long term projections for sea-level rise, bluff stability and Scenic Drive, Edwards Street and Van Wycke challenges.

The city’s completed stormwater project along with the Trinidad Harbor Rancheria Stormwater project improvements currently underway were cited as proactive remedies for drainage issues. The city will proceed with improving the Trinidad Head steps on the south side of the Trinidad State Beach-Trinidad Rancheria area parking lot.

The Tuesday, Aug. 13, 6 p.m. council meeting will concern itself with the Nov. 5 election ballot with arguments for and against the city sales tax extension which, like the water rate increase, has been on the council agenda for several months.

Booming Bayside boasts bargains, light industry and a plucky hall that needs support

Saturday, Aug. 24 Annual Communitywide Yard Sale and Central Bazaar at the Temperance Hall

Bayside residents with good items for sale, can join the Bayside Yard Sale in two ways: 1. Sign up at baysidecorners@gmail.com or baysidecorners.org/donate to have your address marked on the Bayside Yard Sales Map (online and printed) and receive red yard sale signs to post at your driveway.

Bayside Corners will distribute the yard sales maps and promote your sale. 2. Sign up to sell your used items (no clothes) in front of the Temperance Hall.

Large signs, flags, social media and print promotion draws a crowd of shoppers to this central Bayside location. Residents must sign up by the Wednesday, Aug. 17 deadline.

Smile and wave

Since January Old Arcata Road has looked like a Halloween Party — orange fencing, orange bollards, orange flags, barriers, tape, cones, and signs. There’s slow, steady progress on the installation of sidewalks. Prepare to wait — coming and going.

Applause for the crew who stop and direct traffic around the work. In the midst of noisy equipment and impatient drivers waiting, they always smile when they motion you to stop or wave you to move on. Above-average people skills for directing traffic!

Temperance Hall progress and call for volunteers

Steady, incremental progress is also happening at Bayside Corners’ placemaking project at the Temperance Hall corner of Old Arcata and Jacoby Creek roads.

Thanks to Atlas Engineering, we’re learning the details of necessary repairs and upgrades in order to lift the Hall to strengthen the foundation. The most important improvements — foundation, earthquake bracing, roof and stormwater run-off from the roads won’t be easily seen by the public.

At this time, $40,000 in local support is needed to reach the total required to apply for a federal rural facilities matching grant.

To help transform the center of Bayside’s historic district into a useful venue and minipark, you can send tax deduct-

Bayside businesses: goat cheese and drones

Bayside’s 30 small businesses employ more than 186 people. The largest employer, Jacoby Creek School District, has 84 employees. Most of the businesses are home-based or special niche agriculture.

One of Bayside’s best known businesses is Karin Eide’s Spring Hill Farmstead Goat Cheese LLC. Karin moved to Bayside 32 years ago, and launched her business in April 2016. She’s been raising dairy goats and making cheese for 19 years, the last 8 years being CDFA licensed.

Her cheese can be found at Arcata Farmers’ Market, Kneeland Glen Farmstand and served at Bayside Farmstead Café. She currently has 30 LaMancha goats she’s raised on five acres with six rotating pastures.

Karin is only one of three licensed U.S. cheesemakers that use thistle rennet, and she imports organic thistle rennet from Spain. She uses it in all her cheeses — fresh, aged cheddars (up to 60 days), feta and everything in between.

Spring Hill Farmstead Goat Cheese is the only farmstead goat cheese (ie. goats live and cheese is made on the same farm) made between Oregon and Mendocino County.

By contrast, tech start-up, TopoMetriks, specializes in Aerial Lidar and Topographic Mapping and Analysis. The business was launched this year by Skyler

In partnership with Atlas Engineering, TopoMetriks has produced a high resolution, high accuracy topographic map of the Temperance Hall property. He uses DJI’s flagship Lidar camera and enterprise drone to efficiently map land with remarkable centimeter-level accuracy to deliver to clients a new view of their land.

Skyler has had extensive experience as a geospatial information systems specialist, both a consultant and National Park Service technician on projects such as the Montezuma Wetlands Restoration and the Road Removal restoration effort within Redwood National Park.

Forgive Us, Gustavito!

DELL’ARTE INTERNATIONAL

BLUE LAKE – As part of a celebration of 50 years of creations, Dell’Arte International presents Otherland Theatre Ensemble’s Forgive Us, Gustavito! Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 26 to July 28 at Dell’Arte’s Carlo Theatre, 131 H St. in, Blue Lake. All shows are at 7 p.m. and advanced tickets are $20 at dellarte.com.

Inspired by bizarre true events, Forgive Us, Gustavito! is set in the backdrop of a horrific crime. Gustavito, the solitary hippo of the National Zoo, was found dead from 15 stab wounds to the snout.

Join his twin brother Detective Emilio Hippo, the devastating Elvira Spider Monkey, Toto the Gentleman Gorilla and a whole host of Zoo friends for a story that is equal parts classic noir and outrageous animal madness.

In the shadowy underbelly of the zoo, we ask the question, “what does it mean to be complicit in a system you cannot identify?”

This show is funded in part by the Nancy LaFrenz Memorial Fund.
